Ladner pleads guilty to Grand Jury charge

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Oris Ladner of Lakeshore, former District One Hancock County School Board member, pled guilty to conflict of interest charges in Circuit Court Thursday morning.

The charges stemmed from controversial repair work at Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore after a tornado heavily damaged the building in May.

Place One Circuit Judge Leslie B. Grant imposed the maximum sentence on Ladner, recommended by District Attorney Albert Necaise, which includes a $500 fine, court costs and a 90-day jail term.

Grant suspended the jail term, also on recommendation of the district attorney.

Ladner appeared in court, at the County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis, without legal counsel and stood nervously in the defendant's booth throughout some 10 minutes of questioning by Grant.

Necaise informed Grant, "Ladner, indicted by the October County Grand Jury on conflict of interest charges, is without an attorney and he doesn't desire an attorney."

Grant said to Necaise, "Do you anticipate Ladner will plead guilty?"

Necaise replied, "Yes."

The judge called Ladner and stated, "Let the record show Ladner stands before us."

"You've (Ladner) heard the district attorney say you do not request an attorney. The constitution gives the right to have an attorney appointed by the court for you," Grant stated.

"You do not want an attorney?" Grant asked Ladner.

Ladner replied, "No, sir."

"You stand able and willing to represent yourself?" Grant inquired.

Ladner responded, "Yes, sir."

Grant asked, "You are charged in the indictment that while a member of the school board you were employed by Bay Contractors, Inc. to repair Gulfview Elementary?"

Civil action against school board asked

State ok's Hancock General, Grand Jury less approving

By BRENT MACEY

The Hancock County Grand Jury, in its final report for the January term, slapped the county school board for its handling of the Gulfview Elementary School repair work and also admonished Hancock General Hospital on its lack of accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The hospital recently received accreditation from the Department of Health and Human Services, Phillip Langston, hospital administrator, said.

Langston said, "The State Health Department annually inspects all hospitals not accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals."

Accreditation by the Health Department enables Hancock General to continue participation in the government's Medicare-Medicaid program," he stated.

Also, the certification indicates that Hancock General Hospital meets the standard of care for acute hospitals as defined by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services," he added.

The Grand Jury urged the Hospital to set a "high priority" to meet standards set by the JCAH to receive accreditation.

According to Langston, "The successful completion of the Joint Commission of Accreditation for Hospitals will emphasize the need for the annual state survey."

The Grand Jury report criticized loose and exposed wiring in the maintenance area of the hospital.

"This needs to be repaired to meet NEC (electrical code) specifications," the report stated.

The report also stated, "The kitchen and cafeteria area were found to be dirty and cluttered," and "Materials are stored in hallways creating a fire hazard and safety problem."

Langston, stated a September 1980 HHS survey also found a number of deficiencies.

Reverend Charles R. Johnson, chairman of the hospital Board of Trustees, stated, "The hospital, with the help of Hospital Corporation of America consultants, is now preparing for a JCAH survey in June."

WAVELAND FIRE BAN

Chief Kenneth Fayard of the Waveland Fire Department Friday said a ban on all open fires within the city limits is in effect until further notice due to extremely dry conditions. Violators will be issued citations which require payment in City Court. However, permits for burning trash within containers may still be obtained from the Waveland Police Department dispatcher at no charge.

COCHRAN STAFF VISIT

Members of U.S. Senator Thad Cochran's mobile office staff will be at the Hancock County Courthouse Wednesday from 11 a.m. until noon to give local citizens a chance to present problems with federal agencies or air views on issues before the Senate.

HOSPITALITY BIRTHDAY

City, county and state dignitaries as well as Gulf Coast tourism officials are expected to attend a 1 p.m. ceremony Monday marking the first anniversary of the Hancock County Welcome Center on Hwy. 607 at I-10. The public is invited. Lillian Dillard, center manager, said some 182,000 persons from the U.S. and 88 foreign countries visited during the first 11 months of operation of the center which opened Feb. 1, 1980.

LEGION PIER HOURS

With valuable materials and equipment on the American Legion Pier in Bay St. Louis during renovation of the structure, Post No. 139 has closed the facility between 6 p.m. and 7 a.m. until further notice to prevent a recurrence of recent vandalism on the site.

Patron blasts superintendent

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County Superintendent of Education Billy D. Sills said Friday he has been advised by his attorneys not to comment on a petition calling for his removal from office.

"My attorneys have told me not to make any comments about the petition at this time," Sills stated.

However, the superintendent did say,

"The same people who have been fighting the school system all along are circulating this petition."

Faye Lusich of Lakeshore, one of three school patrons to publicly acknowledge personally circulating the petition, stated Friday afternoon, "How he can say we're fighting education is beyond me. I just don't know how he can say that."

"I myself am president of Gulfview Parent-Teacher Club and we're organizing a school fair to buy projectors for the school," Lusich explained.

She said Janice Bourgeois, another Lakeshore school patron circulating the petition, is organizing a talent show to also collect funds for the projectors.

Bourgeois was unavailable for comment Friday.

Lusich also noted Lynette Necaise, a

Necaise Crossing Community county school patron and Picayune Municipal Separate School District teacher, is also publicly circulating the petition.

Necaise refused to answer any questions about the petition Friday.

Lusich said, "Sills' statement doesn't make any sense. Why he made it I don't understand."

"If I'm not fighting for better education I don't know who is," she added.

"When Sills paid $27,000 for a fence at Gulfview Elementary School—that's suppose to be better education?" Lusich questioned.

"There's not one of us three who hasn't fought for better education," Lusich added.

"I think Sills' has made a lot of misjudgements and there's been a lot of money spent that could have been saved," she stated.

Three arrested in porch theft

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Three persons were arrested in the Catahoula Community Friday for allegedly attempting to steal the front porch of a residence, according to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said, "We received a call from a motorist who reported that Bernie Necaise was holding three persons at gunpoint at his residence, Deputy James Ladner responded to the call."

Ladner arrested Jerry Vegas Jr., 27, Rt. 2, Box 299, Perkinston and two juveniles, one 16 and the other 17.

"The three are charged with grand larceny," Peterson reports.

Investigator Alvin Ladner, who is in charge of the case, states that Necaise allegedly caught the trio dismantling his front porch after removing metal roofing from a shed in his yard.

The two juveniles were turned over to the Youth Court. Vegas is out on a $2,500 bond and is scheduled to appear before Justice Court Judge Horatio Frierson Feb. 10.

Other police activities, Investigator Ladner reports the arrest of Johnny Seals, 20, 700 Casper St., Picayune, who is charged with one count of burglary.

Ladner stated, "Seals is charged with the alleged burglary of Prentice Kennedy's Place on Hwy. 43."

Seals has been released on a $2,500 bond and is scheduled to appear before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise on Feb. 4.

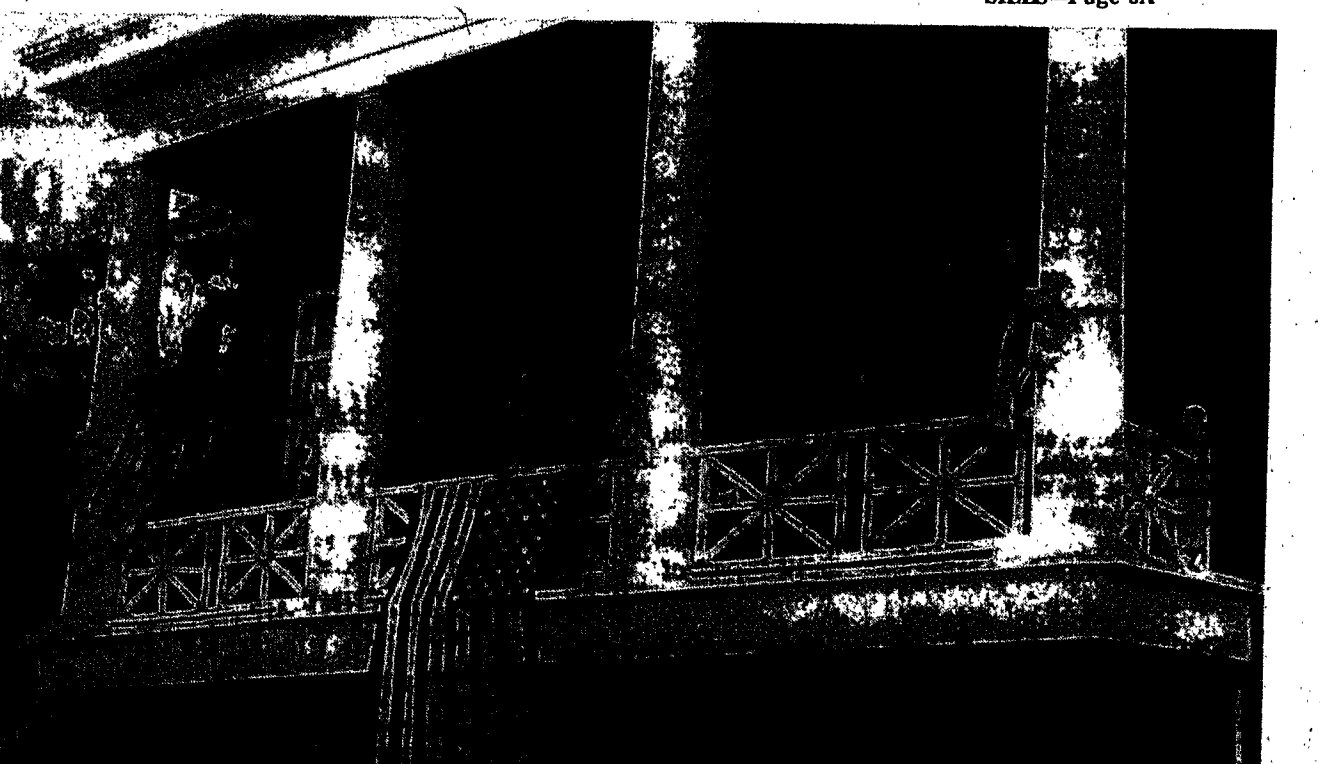

Bay St. Louis Chief of Police Douglas Williams reports that Jerry McNeil, 223 Leonhard Ave., Bay St. Louis has been charged with leaving the scene of an accident and reckless driving in a case involving the destruction of a fire hydrant on North Beach.

Williams said, "McNeil allegedly struck a fire hydrant, then left the scene Tuesday night and was later stopped by a Bay policeman. He also allegedly struck a mail box."

McNeil is charged with driving under the influence.

City craftsmen had to be called out to repair the fire hydrant.

McNeil was arrested and released on a $1,500 bond and was scheduled to appear before Bay City Judge Joseph Benvenutti.

HOSTAGE THANKSGIVING RALLY—Charlene Clark, Bay High senior, organizer of a Friday Thanksgiving rally for the release of the American hostages, recognizes local elected officials at the Bay St. Louis City Hall celebration. Bay High and Hancock North Central High bands in addition to Keesler's Drum and Bugle Corps joined the hundreds of spectators participating. State Representative J.P. Compretta, keynote speaker, said, "I am happy today to see us united as Americans. We should recognize those countries like Canada and Algeria who were instrumental in securing release of the Americans." American Legion Commanders Jack Doyle and Henry Prevon and veterans participated in the raising of the American flag. Rev. Charles Clark, pastor of First Assembly of God, offered a prayer of Thanksgiving. Bay Mayor Larry Bennett thanked those in attendance and Mrs. Peggy Tedford led the singing of "America the Beautiful." (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Northeast county fire protection meeting set

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Residents of Sellers, Necaise Crossing, Standard and Dedeaux Communities are being urged to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Diamondhead Fire Station to discuss organizing a northeast Hancock County fire department.

District Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner will conduct the meeting.

Currently, most of District Three in northeast Hancock County has no structural fire protection.

Ed Friloux, Diamondhead fire safety administrator and county sheriff's department fire investigator, Thursday said the Kiln Volunteer and Diamondhead Fire Departments respond to fires in the unprotected area encompassing those communities, but are not obligated to do so.

"These fire departments respond to structural blazes in northeast Hancock County, but we are not funded to assist this area and it usually takes 15 to 20 minutes to reach a blaze there," Friloux reported.

"Usually we get there just in time to cool down the ashes and make an investigation of the cause," he stated.

Ladner, H.L. Strong of Standard and Friloux met last week at the Diamondhead Fire Station to organize the Wednesday meeting.

Strong noted, "If we had a fire department it would mean five minutes response rather than the present 15 to 20 minutes."

Friloux reported northeast county residents and Hancock North Central School have to pay some of the highest insurance rates due to a lack of adequate fire protection.

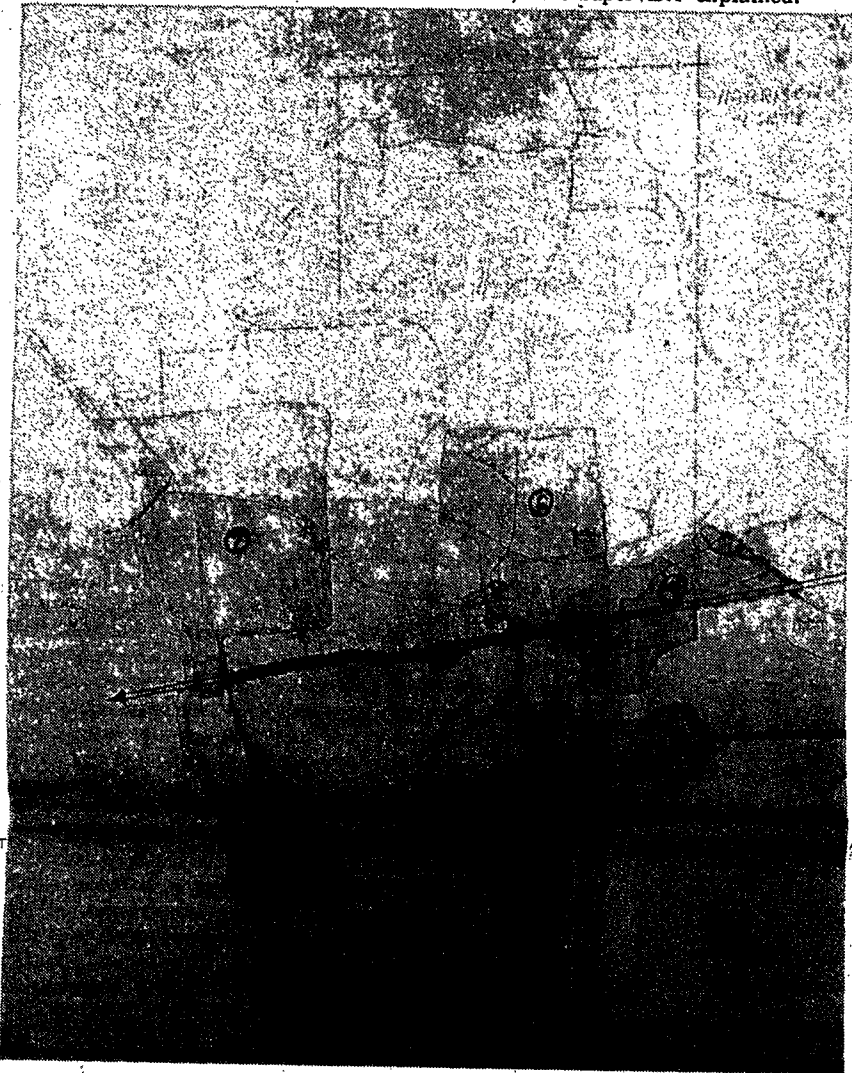

"There is no authority to conduct fire or tornado drills at the school," he added.

The administrator said a fire department could also provide rescue training to personnel who could save lives.

He also noted millage would be imposed on area residents, but at the same time insurance rates would be reduced.

Ladner noted, "Right now another problem to Kiln and Diamondhead fire fighters is they don't know which road is which."

"We are slowly installing road signs to assist them, but at $30 per sign and $8 per pole we can only put up a few at a time," the supervisor explained.

UNPROTECTED AREA—Shaded areas of the map show jurisdictions of one federal, two municipal, two county fire protection district and four state chartered volunteer fire departments. The unshaded area indicates that part of the county which has no fire protection other than that provided for wooded areas by the State Forestry Commission. Although Kiln Volunteer and Diamondhead Fire Departments respond to structural fires in the unprotected area, officials say it takes 15 to 20 minutes to reach a house in that section of the county. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

DISCUSSING FIRE PROTECTION—Planning an organizational meeting at the Diamondhead Fire Station Thursday for a proposed northeast Hancock County fire department are, from left, Roger Dale Ladner, District Three supervisor; H.L. Strong, Standard Community businessman; and Ed Friloux, Diamondhead fire safety administrator and sheriff's department arson investigator. The three plan another meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Diamondhead station to continue the move to establish the rural department. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Jordan found guilty

By BRENT MACEY

A Hancock County Circuit Court jury composed of seven women and five men, after deliberating some 3.5 hours Friday afternoon, found Jimmie Jordan, 20, of Shoreline Park, guilty of an alleged rape of a 36-year-old housewife.

Judge Leslie B. Grant sentenced Jordan to 20 years in the state penitentiary.

Jordan was charged with raping the mother of a six-month-old child Aug. 18, 1980 in Shoreline Park.

The verdict came at the end of a four-day trial during which defense attorney James Tucker III contested the defendant was somewhere else at the time of the rape and was "coerced" into an admission of guilt by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. Tucker had called John Paul Jordan, cousin of the defendant, Thursday to corroborate Jimmie Jordan's alibi.

Jordan stated he, the defendant and another worker were working on a roof in Garden Isle subdivision during the morning of Aug. 18.

He stated the work crew "knocked off" around 9 a.m. because of the heat and returned to his trailer in Shoreline Park.

The defendant was at his cousin's trailer until 11:30 a.m., the witness said.

At 11:30, Jordan stated he left Jimmie alone to go with his wife to take their child to day school.

Mrs. Jordan testified Jimmie had been at the house until 11:30 a.m., stating she heard the time on the car radio when the couple left.

The victim had testified Wednesday that the rape occurred between 10 and 11 a.m.

Tucker, in his final conclusion Friday, also mentioned tests conducted on the victim by Dr. Erlinda Alcaien, of the obstetrics and gynecology clinic at Hancock General Hospital, the day after the alleged rape.

Alcaien submitted those tests to Dr. John Rutherford, pathologist at the hospital, and also to Joe Andrews of the State Crime Laboratory.

Andrews testified there was no indication of sperm in a sample he examined four months after the tests were taken.

Andrews also stated samples of head and pubic hair gathered at the rape scene by Hancock County Investigator Alvin Ladner did not match those of the defendant.

"Maybe those belong to the real rapist," Tucker told the jury.

Assistant District Attorney Glen Cannon who prosecuted the case mentioned the tests conducted by Rutherford.

Rutherford testified to identifying a cluster of sperms on the swab he examined a few days after the tests.

Cannon also pointed to Andrew's testimony that there was evidence of a chemical enzyme on the victim's housecoat. Andrews stated it is an enzyme associated with sperm.

Tucker reminded the jury of testimony by John Paul Jordan and the defendant that the defendant had been coerced by Ladner and Sheriff Ronnie Peterson into giving a taped confession of the rape to the sheriff's department the morning after the incident.

John Paul Jordan had testified that Investigator Alvin Ladner told the defendant that he knew a person who had pleaded guilty to rape who received only a moderate sentence.

Jordan stated he was outside the investigating room looking in the glass window during the door during the interrogation the morning after the incident.

Both Peterson and Ladner denied the charges.

Cannon said the defendant knew what he was doing when he signed the testimony given at the sheriff's office the day after the incident and was not coerced.

"He wanted to go ahead and sign because he talked with the woman after he had raped her and told her his name. He was sorry for what he had done."

Cannon mentioned the taped confession of the defendant where the defendant stated the victim dropped her six-month old baby daughter to the floor when he entered her house.

"How did he know the baby fell to the floor," Cannon asked the jury.

The victim testified her baby had slipped to the floor after the defendant entered her house uninvited, closed the door behind him, and grabbed her by the throat.

Cannon also reminded the jury of the taped confession where the defendant admitted telling the woman his name.

The victim testified she had asked Jordan his name after the rape.

Jordan testified in the taped interview that he gave the woman his name, "Because she asked."

The victim said she did not believe Jordan at the time but became more certain when she saw the word Jim tattooed on his arm.

In his final plea to the jury, Cannon associated the case of the defense to driving down the highway and having the fog roll into the road.

"The defense is throwing up a fog and smoke screen so that you will not see what really happened that day," he said.

"The man came into her own home and striped her of her dignity in the very place where she and her husband function as man and wife." He asked them to consider the evidence.

"All I ask you to do is what justice calls for you to do," he concluded.

Industry eyes dockage, land at Port Bienville

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Louisiana firm is eyeing dockage along a Port Bienville Industrial Park channel turning basin to moor floating oil rigs under repair.

Officials of the firm told the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Thursday they are also interested in purchasing acreage for a permanent oil industry service operation in the industrial park.

Ed Bragg of Smith Brothers, Inc. of Belle Chase informed the commission the company would employ some 40 people in the repair operation and possibly 50-60 people in a proposed permanent, land-based Port Bienville facility.

"We employ welders, laborers, fitters and electricians," Bragg stated. "The commission's Leasing Committee will study the channel proposal at a 3 p.m. Tuesday meeting at the county agency's Waveland offices on Hwy. 603 to offer its recommendation at a Feb. 5 recess meeting."

Bragg said a projected six weeks is needed to repair the first rig and his company has contracts to refurbish some 15 platforms in 15 months.

Commission executive director W. Wilson Webre said, "Bragg approached me today regarding utilization of the turning basin for repair and inspection of a 94-foot by 170-foot drilling rig."

The turning basin is located at the end of a Port Bienville canal near the eastern border of the park property.

The company representative said the platform is now located near Venice, La. at Bird Island.

"We're also interested in acquiring permanent property so we can jack up rigs and engage in pipe fabrication. We're involved in offshore services and maintenance repair," Bragg explained.

"We are looking for a location so we may expand and Port Bienville is ideal for our purposes. Your port facility has the capability of getting an industry which will bring immediate work to the area," he reported.

"Our company needs a place we can bring these rigs in and inspect them if needed," Bragg stated.

Commissioner Dave McDonald asked, "Does your company's work include welding?"

Bragg replied, "Yes sir."

The company representative explained that industry standards require all platforms be inspected and any faulty welds or corroded areas be repaired.

He said his company also corrects electrical problems and refurbishes living quarters on rigs.

Bragg noted the platforms draw some eight feet of water. He said the actual rig is 190-feet tall, but in a retracted position is some 60-feet high. The entire structure is towed by tug.

Webre stated the 94-foot platform width would not restrict usage of the turning basin by other industries at the park.

"I mentioned to Bragg that Marine Concrete Structures at Port Bienville has a dry dock which could accommodate his operation," Webre reported.

The company representative noted he casually inspected the dry dock facility and concluded it could handle the rigs.

"All dry dock facilities on the Gulf Coast are booked up. We've been doing this kind of work in Mobile, Pensacola, Texas, Avondale and New Orleans," Bragg stated.

"The rigs have their own electric generating plants, so no on-shore power supply is needed," he said.

Bragg noted only a small "construction shack" would be needed to issue payrolls.

"We've even had to take these structures to Pensacola where we have to stage them offshore, but it's better to have land accessibility for inspections and in your turning basin we would," Bragg reported.

McDonald asked, "You all won't have any run-off of any kind?"

Bragg replied, "No, everything would be in a fabrication sense."

"We're primarily interested in developing a facility in conjunction with oil field needs for 'pressure vessels,'" he explained.

Bragg said a pressure vessel is any type of floating structure containing tanks under pressure.

"We are looking at the petrochemical industry and oil companies as our clients. This includes sand blasting and painting, the storing of pipe and pipe fabrication," he added.

Regarding an industrial park site, Bragg stated, "Tentatively we need 35-40 acres based on our feasibility contracts available on our work."

He added that a canal would probably have to be dug into the property for the operation.

The company representative said the permanent work force would vary depending on contracts available.

Webre reported, "I've suggested the International Demolition Co. site." The site is located near the proposed dock area.

Earlier in the meeting Webre reported International Demolition Co. has $40,000 ($10,000 per acre) for the site.

plus $40,000 for a crane.

Webre noted the demolition company is "going bankrupt."

In reference to the dock operation, McDonald inquired about the time period between one rig being completed and another moving in for refurbishing.

Bragg replied, "A week or 10 days." "Work time for each rig would be about six weeks," he said.

"We have to send divers down to check welds and the condition of the structure. If it is determined we can do sub-surface (underwater) welding, we would want to do it at the turning basin. But depending on the nature of work we might need to put a rig in dry dock," Bragg explained.

Commission President Jimmy DeBlanc asked for Webre's recommendation.

Webre replied, "That's why I've brought this gentlemen here to the board department."

Bits 'n pieces

It is our understanding that there has been some vandalism committed on the American Legion pier in Bay St. Louis.

The contractor is now at work trying to repair the pier and perform the necessary work to have this much used facility completed before the summer.

The American Legion has had no alternative but to close the pier down from 6 p.m. to 7 a.m. during this construction time because of the vandalism.

We would like to urge all citizens, if they see something out of the ordinary going on at the site of the Legion pier in Bay St. Louis to give police a call.

Time seems to go by so fast, when we realize that it has already been a full year since the Hospitality Station on I-10 opened.

A one year birthday celebration is scheduled for tomorrow, highlighted by the cutting of a large cake a little after 1 p.m., according to Lillian Dillard, manager.

We hope all of you will try and stop by the facility on Monday and see the many improvements which have been made since its opening one year ago.

We can recall the very cold weather on opening day last year and hope we will have a pleasant day for the birthday.

We still feel that we have the best Hospitality Station and staff in the state and as far as that goes, in neighboring states as well.

Monday will be a good time to let these fine ladies know how much we appreciate their hospitality to our visitors.

The recent dry spell, and we hope it is over with soon, has caused some drastic actions to be taken in regards to burning.

Waveland's Fire Department has now banned until further notice open burning even with permits. We understand the only burning allowed must be in approved containers with a permit.

The City of Bay St. Louis is strictly enforcing its burning permits regulations.

A report late Friday from the Hancock Forestry Department gives us a good view of just how many fires we have had since the first of January.

There were a total of 168 fires suppressed by the Forestry Department alone in Hancock. This figure does not include the numerous fires fought by volunteers without forestry department aide.

On January 18, a Sunday, Rand Riedrich, county forester, had to declare Hancock a disaster area because of so many fires.

This means that the saving of trees had to be forgotten to enable forestry fire fighters to try and "save" many homes threatened by wild fires.

The first 30 days of January showed less than one inch of rainfall for the county which followed a dry December.

It is our understanding a person living in the county can burn on their own property provided the fire does not get away. If the fire gets away, we are told a suppression fee can be charged.

We know we sound like a broken record, but once again we ask you to please be careful with fires.

The Bottom Line

About Advertising and Business Topics.

We have a rather extensive ad program, but our volume of business is not increasing. I see a lot of new people in our store, but they must be one-timers. Why won't they come back?

Dear WWTBC: I don't know for sure. The ads you sent are not the type that could be construed as misleading. Therefore I assume your problem is in the store.

If I had to make a single guess it would be that store employees, for some reason, are doing, or not doing, something to make the customers want to come back.

It could be too little help, or on rare occasions it may be too much help. A good salesperson knows when to offer to help and when to let the customer browse.

And the good salesperson knows that a browser may not necessarily be interested in knowing any more about the item he is looking at. To be sure he could very well be offended if an attempt was made to sell it to him.

Your store check-out is another potential problem area. Quite frequently I have turned around at the door, if the check out lines are backed up several deep, don't seem to be moving, and there is no express lane for single or a limited number of items.

But all too often the problem is rudeness, intentional or not, which is inexcusable.

Recently in a line in a department type store the person operating the cash register took out the money, locked the drawer and told those of us in line we would have to get in the other line.

My reaction was that I didn't really have to be there at all.

And I probably won't be again soon.

There are all kinds of possible explanations for the order to get in the other line. If any reasonable explanation were offered the incident would have probably gone unnoticed.

If the machine had quit working, most of us would have understood. If some idiot in the front office was playing musical cash registers, we could have empathized with the situation for most of us have to endure this kind of thing, also.

The point is probably not worth belaboring.

But all the advertising in the world cannot overcome such incidents in the store. A successful business cannot long tolerate such behavior.

The best way to have good people is to hire good people. However one manager, I know, provides a stuffed doll and knitting needles in the lounge area and advises his salespeople, at the first sign of edginess on their part, to go in and stick a few needles in the doll. (He said he knew most of the anger taken out on the doll was probably directed at him, but that he took his turn with the needles sometimes, also.)

HOSTAGE RELEASE APPRECIATION — In appreciation for the release of the 52 American hostages, students and faculty at Annunciation School in Kiln have been wearing yellow ribbons. The campus trees are also adorned with yellow ribbons, the symbol for the released Americans. Sister Loraine, Tyrone Callahan, Mark Lafontaine, Shelley Brittain, Helen Brittain, Bryan Breaux, Dirk Richardson, Cherelle Comfort and Stephanie Lawless stand by large sign with American Flag. Annunciation Parish also held a Thanksgiving Mass on Wednesday and students made special Valentine cards and sent them to the State Department for delivery to the ex-hostages. We are glad to see so many thanksgiving gestures throughout the nation and in our county.

BUSINESS VIEWPOINT

MUCH FOR WHICH TO BE THANKFUL IN AMERICA

This is a good time of year to reflect on the fortunate circumstances which most of us enjoy. The elections are over, and we have expressed our opinion on the state of our nation. While all of the candidates you and I supported may not have won, we did, after all, have the opportunity — along with millions of other Americans — to make our voices heard.

Now it is time to consider the wonders of the system which guarantees us that right.

In the United States of America we are propelled by the most fundamental of principles — the right to be free.

People from oppressed societies know that. They continue to risk their lives in leaky boats to cross hundreds of miles of ocean carrying a few personal belongings and clinging to a ray of hope ... hope that they too may taste freedom. The first "boat people" to come to this continent seeking freedom landed at Jamestown, Virginia, in the early 1600s.

Others landed a few years later at Plymouth, Massachusetts, and they have been coming ever since. Today they come from Southeast Asia...from Cuba and Haiti...and they all come seeking economic and personal freedom.

All of the claims of the Communist world are subject to scrutiny as the world watches those little ships escaping from Vietnam or the crowded boats moving across the straits of Florida — people willing to do anything to be free, to escape tyranny.

Let us look at the record of the free world. Let us examine some of the fruits of the labor of free people, their accomplishments — our accomplishments.

In America, each generation has always expected the next to be better, to have more...more education, more material comforts, better health, greater enjoyment, greater personal security, and more peace of mind.

That's been the case for most of the last 200 years.

Of course, this country was founded by those who wanted more...they yearned for greater opportunity and more personal freedom. They left England with a determination to attain it here.

Later, they rebelled against the Mother country because even after escaping the geographical confines of England, they had still not achieved the economic and personal freedom they sought.

The Declaration of Independence changed all that. The last 200 years have been years in which free men and women have had the opportunity to live and prosper in a free enterprise environment.

The result: the highest standard of living ever achieved in the history of the world.

The free enterprise system has helped us to be the best fed, best dressed, and best endowed people in the world. We have built tens of thousands of great schools, and provided our children with an education that even the most privileged few could not obtain 100 years ago.

We have built thousands of great hospitals and conquered disease in a way beyond the wildest dreams of the medical practitioners of a century ago.

We have built tens of thousands of churches and staffed them with dedicated people to minister to our spiritual needs.

We have added fifty percent to our life expectancy; split the atom, planted our flag on the moon, created great literature, exciting architecture and enduring music.

And so we could go on in a litany to the great achievements Americans have accomplished in the last 100 years.

Some may be critical that production of material wealth should not be a major goal in life. True, wealth for its own sake should not.

But only when a society or nation produces surplus wealth is it possible to develop all the other aspects of the good life — better education — better health — more leisure — cultural activities — music — art — literature — churches — schools and hospitals.

All these depend on surplus wealth. Without it, we fall back to a primitive existence.

The free enterprise system is the best wealth production system the world has ever known. Even the poor in a free economy have more than the rich in other systems. A rising tide raises all boats, large and small.

Each step in our lives presents a new challenge. At this milestone in our nation's history...moving into the decade of the eighties...the challenge is to maintain and improve upon that which has given us the ability to achieve greatness, our productive capacity.

The resources are available. The promise remains. It's now up to us. The American Dream need not die, if we have the will to keep it alive.

Hinds, Rankin Counties operate regional wastewater system

January 22, 1981
Attention: Mayor and City Council
Bay St. Louis

Gentlemen:

As a member of the Pearl River Basin Development District with headquarters in Jackson, I was involved in creation of the Jackson Area Regional Sewer System.

That area located in Hinds and Rankin Counties includes seven towns or small municipalities, two state agencies, one private utility and one airport authority.

The above towns and agencies own and operate their collection system. In addition a central plant is operated with an extra charge based upon amount of water used, an average of $6 to $7 per month, above the cost of collection systems.

I understand it has been in operation for nearly 10 years and considered to be satisfactory.

If you need additional information you may call the civil engineer associated with the authority, Mr. Joe Waggoner, phone 825-3939, Jackson.

I feel you were not aware of this undertaking and hope the above information will be helpful.

Sincerely,
Norton Haas
Bay St. Louis

PS. I believe this is similar to the Gulf Coast Authority.

Cancer group tells Smokeout results

More than two million American smokers who were able to go a full 24 hours without their cigarettes on the day of the Great American Smokeout (Nov. 20) were still not smoking one to 10 days later, the American Cancer Society reported.

A survey conducted for the Society by the Gallup Organization showed that 30.4 percent of the nation's estimated 54 million smokers — not quite 16.5 million — tried to quit on Smokeout day, and 4.9 million of them succeeded. One to 10 days later, 2.2 million were still not smoking.

The Gallup figures, while more conservative than those obtained on the morning of the Smokeout by 418 American Cancer Society volunteers in 48 states and the District of Columbia, tended to confirm the results of the volunteer study.

Both surveys showed that more women than men participated in the November event. Gallup also found that participation was highest among young people and the college educated.

Among those who successfully gave up cigarettes on Smokeout Day but went back to smoking after the event was Natalie Cole, 1980 National Smokeout champion.

Edward Asner, who was 1978 national chairman, quit cold turkey that year and hasn't smoked since.

His predecessor, Sammy Davis Jr., tried to quit but couldn't make it through the day.

Allan Jonas of Los Angeles, chairman of the board of the American Cancer Society and himself a former smoker, said today that "The varying experience of these three individuals typifies the experience of millions of smokers all over the country. It's no sin to try and fail. The secret of success is to keep trying."

CONSUMER REPORT

office of
BILL ALLAIN, ATTORNEY GENERAL

LEASING VS. PURCHASING

When leasing looks like a good option, there's Federal law that will help you shop for the best deal. The Consumer Leasing portion of The Consumer Credit Protection Act requires leasing companies to tell you the facts about the cost and terms of their contracts. You can use the information to compare one lease with another or to compare the cost of leasing with the cost of buying the same property. The law also limits any extra payment you may have to make at the end of the lease and regulates lease advertising.

The law applies to personal property leased for less than $25,000 by an individual for a period of more than four months for personal, family or household use. It covers long-term rentals of cars, furniture, appliances, and other personal property. The law does not cover daily car rentals or month-to-month rentals which you can cancel without penalty at the end of the month; leases for apartments or houses; or property leased to companies or to individuals for business, commercial or agricultural purposes.

Before you agree to a lease, the law requires that you get a dated written statement of its cost, including the amount of any advance payment, such as a security deposit; the number, the amount and the dates your regular payments are due, as well as the total amount of those payments; and the amount you must pay for license, registration and taxes, and for any other fees, such as maintenance.

You must also be told certain terms of the lease, including what kind of insurance is required; any express warranty or guarantee on the property; made by the manufacturer or lessor who is responsible for maintaining and servicing the property, and any standards for wear and tear (which must be reasonable) set by the leasing company; and penalty for default or late payment; how you or the leasing company may cancel the lease and the charges for doing so; and whether or not you can buy the property and, if you can, when and at what price.

First, decide whether you want to buy with cash, buy on credit, or lease. When making your decision, be sure to take into account such expenses as the cost of insurance, maintenance and special fees.

To help you compare the cost of buying on credit with the cost of open end leasing, you should be told the total amount you are responsible for under the lease, the value of the property at the beginning of the lease, and the difference between the two.

One decision that will affect leasing costs and terms is whether you choose an "open end" or "closed end" lease. In an open end lease you may run the risk of owing extra money depending on the value of the property when you return it. This payment is often called a "balloon payment". For example, when you sign a three-year open end car lease, the leasing company may estimate that the car will be worth $2,000 after three years of normal use. If the car is worth only $1,500 when you return it, you may have to pay a $500 balloon payment.

In a closed end lease, you are not responsible for the value of the property when you return it and will not have to make a balloon payment. As a result, closed end leases usually have higher monthly payments than open end leases.

You should know that in an open end lease the leasing company must tell you that you may have a balloon payment and how it is to be calculated, and at the end of the lease you have the right to obtain, at your expense, an estimate of the property's worth from an independent appraiser agreed to by both parties. Both parties must then abide by the appraiser's decision.

If you decide to lease, shop around for the best price and terms. Compare the costs and advantages of open end and closed end leases, and look at such options as whether the leasing company will pay for repairs and maintenance.

For additional information contact your Attorney General Bill Allain, Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 220, Jackson, Ms. 39205.

The Grand Jury's report on emergency repair work at Gulfview Elementary after a tornado struck the school in May, stated, "We agree with the previous Grand Jury that there was a general unconcern and disregard for reasonably good business practices and protection of the taxpayer's money."

The report continues, "In many cases, bills were approved and paid without itemization or detail to determine what work was performed. Some bills were approved and paid with nothing more than date and amount."

"We consider the school board's and superintendent's actions to be totally without concern for the safeguarding of the county's assets, grossly negligent, totally unprofessional, and with a complete disregard for the responsibilities entrusted to these offices," the report stated.

The report recommended the District Attorney file civil actions against all school board members and the superintendent of schools to obtain recovery of county funds 'wasted through their grossly negligent and or criminal activity.'

The previous Grand Jury indicted one school board member for conflict of interest, a contractor for false pretense and an election commissioner for forgery.

Superintendent of Education Billy Sills apparently is immune from Grand Jury action, reportedly as a result of the Grand Jury's failure to seek a waiver of immunity from him when he testified before that body.

The report also advised investigation be continued by the sheriff's department, the state auditor's office and other available investigative agencies, and have new evidence warranting possible criminal indictments be presented to future Grand Juries.

The Grand Jury also recommended the state legislature pass laws making it criminally illegal for publicly elected officials to accept gifts and particularly gifts of salvage from those holding state, county, municipal or other public contracts.

The Grand Jury also stated it was advised that the District Attorney's office is advancing a program which would allow some first-time non-violent offenders to have their felony conviction records cleared.

The report stated the program is in existence in some states and other Mississippi counties.

The program 'helps prevent some young people from having a permanent, lifetime record for one slip into crime and attempts to divert them from the criminal justice system.'

The report states the Grand Jury agrees that the program is a 'worth while and compassionate program.'

The Grand Jury requests the state legislators give consideration to adoption of a program by state legislation for first-time property offenders similar to provisions presently existing for drug offenders, but for no other violations.

The Grand Jury also recommended a more reasonable travel allowance schedule for persons serving jury duty similar to the schedule provided for state employees and other government agencies, 'be established.'

The report notes state law restricts payment of juror's travel pay to one day, round trip, for any one jury term.

HOME FOR THE AGED

The Grand jury also reported the Hancock County Home for the aged is well managed and presently caring for ten residents.

The report complimented the sheriff's office, local volunteer groups and individuals for their assistance in operating the home.

Mrs. Christine Garcia, home manager and the only full-time employee at the home, is commended in the report for her devotion to the home and its residents.

The Grand Jury recommended:
—Routine inspection, at least annually, for fire and safety;
—Training of personnel in use of fire extinguishers and disaster procedures;
—Installing folding stairways to permit access to air conditioning and heating equipment in the attic;
—Installing smoke detectors and fire alarms.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The Grand Jury report on the Hancock County Health Department recommended:

—Inspections, at least annually, for fire and safety;
—Training personnel in the use of fire extinguishers;
—Installing cabinets and or shelves in the kitchen and record areas for space utilization;

—Evaluation of machines and equipment to determine usefulness. The report stated copy machines are causing cluttering in hallways and offices and recommended the machines be turned in to a central county pool for use by other agencies or disposed of through surplus sales.

CHANCERY CLERK

The Grand Jury stated the former Chancery clerk had initiated an investment program and current Chancery Clerk Michael Necaise is pooling general county money for interest-drawing, 30-day investments.

The report stated $85,000 is in the interest account and is drawing 16 to 16.5 percent interest.

The report commended the program and said the money is planned to be used to purchase a computer system for improving county services.

Necaise is also commended for having all county records put on microfilm and storing them in the archive vault in Jackson at no cost to the county.

The report stated Necaise plans to improve services by purchasing a computer and extend office space by building an addition to the side of the Courthouse.

The Grand Jury recommended:
—The county review its overall data processing needs and coordinate operations on the computer;
—Standardize county employee benefits.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE AND JAIL

The Grand Jury inspected the Hancock County Sheriff's office and jail. The report stated the facilities are 'old, too small, unsafe, unsanitary, deteriorated, and that little can be done without extensive, major repair, renovation and expansion.'

Especially flagrant problems listed by the report are:

—No emergency exits from the upstairs cell areas;
—Lack of adequate living, office and storage space;
—Lack of adequate kitchen an exercise yard
—Lack of interior restrooms and toilet facilities;

Lack of adequate police vehicle and other parking space.

The report stated the new jail is a 'high priority need' and that a new facility is the most economical solution to the problem.

The report stated there are no state or federal funds available for a new facility and that the sheriff and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors are participating in the National Institute of Corrections program for secure assistance in planning and establishing a new jail. Study of a new location is also being conducted the report stated.

The report stated the problem is a 'critical situation.'

and added "if there is no known alternative to a bond issue to secure a new jail, we make our strongest recommendation that the County Board of Supervisors present a bond issue to a responsible voting citizenry before adverse conditions result in loss of life, property, or law suit for non-compliance of federal laws."

ASSESSOR—TAX COLLECTOR

The Grand Jury commended Hancock County Assessor-Tax Collector Edward Murtagh for his work on the county 'in house' reappraisal program, stating 'in house' management of the program will save the county approximately $500,000.

The report also commended Murtagh for instituting a system allowing payment of property taxes by mail.

COUNTY FORESTS

The grand jury report stated it met with Kenneth Burchfield, protection forester, and concluded the 'forests are highly valuable assets to the county.'

The report stated 10 full time employees, operating one full time tower and two seasonal towers, along with three fire supervision crews, watch county forests.

The report stated 367 fires in the last five year period have burned 5,944 acres in Hancock County.

The Grand Jury recommended citizens participate in reporting and controlling forest fires.

The report also urged officials to inform the public that burning permits are required for open burning.

YOUTH COURT

The Grand Jury stated the Hancock County Youth Court is in 'very good physical condition.'

The report recommended school board offices be relocated to another site to 'help relieve congestion and crowded conditions.'

16TH SECTION LAND

The Grand Jury commended Terry Randolph, 16th Section land manager for the Hancock County School Board, for 're-negotiation of leases on lands estimated to add approximately $1,000,000 to the school treasury over the life of these leases.'

The report stated Randolph urges wide publicity of the availability of and location of 16th Section land.

The Grand Jury handed down seven additional indictments along with its final report.

None of those seven indictments are believed to be connected with the Gulfview School repair matter.

Names of those indicted will not be revealed until warrants have been served on those individuals by law enforcement officials.

The seven additional indictments bring the total of indictments handed down by the January term of the Grand Jury to 49.

Four no-bills were returned and seven cases are passed on to the next Grand Jury.

Three cases were stricken from the docket and 35 witnesses were heard during the January term.

"During employment while a member of the board you received $3,063 from Bay Contractors as pay or wages for work at Gulfview?" Grant also asked.

Ladner replied, "Yes sir. Judge at the time."

Grant interrupted Ladner and stated, "The charge in the indictment is a violation of state law which states 'school authorities shall not be interested in contract'."

"Do you understand the charge," the judge inquired.

Ladner responded, "Yes sir."

Grant explained, "If you plead guilty and waive the right to trial by jury. Also if you plead guilty you waive the right to have witnesses testify to your face. Also, if you do not take the stand, you won't have to stand trial or confess."

"The penalty is a fine not less than $100 or not more than $500 and-or imprisonment not less than 30 days or not more than 90 days," the judge added.

"Has anybody forced you to make this decision?" Grant asked.

Ladner replied, "No, sir."

The judge inquired, "Did you do this while a member of the board?"

The former school board member replied, "Yes, sir."

Grant asked, "How do you plead?"

Ladner responded, "Yes sir—guilty."

Necaise addressed the court by stating, "The defendant was a member of the school board when repairs were made at Gulfview. The defendant was employed by Bay Contractors and voted to pay the company."

"He even made a motion to pay installments on a contract with the company," the district attorney noted.

"Since that time there has been an election and Ladner did not run for reelection," Necaise stated.

"The purpose of such an indictment is to get people like this off the school board," Necaise said.

"I recommend the maximum sentence of 90 days. I ask you to suspend the 90-day sentence, but not the $500 fine. I ask Ladner be held by the sheriff until the fine and court costs are paid," Necaise requested.

Grant asked Ladner, "Are you in a position to pay the fine today?"

The former school board member replied, "Yes, sir."

The judge inquired, "Do you have anything to say?"

Ladner stated, "When I worked for Bay Contractors I didn't even know it was illegal. I knew I couldn't work for the school district, but did not know I couldn't work for a contractor."

Grant asked where Ladner had worked while employed by Bay Contractors.

Ladner replied he worked at Gulfview, Clermont Harbor School and Hancock North Central High School principal's residence.

The judge inquired, "Did you (Ladner) work for the money you received?"

The defendant answered, "Yes, sir."

Grant also asked, "Were you paid the regular amount for the type of work you did."

Ladner replied, "Yes, sir."

The judge then stated, "Under the circumstances the recommendation for punishment by the state is reasonable. The 90 days in jail is suspended upon payment of a $500 fine and cost of court."

Later, while paying his fine at the Circuit Clerk's office in the Courthouse, Ladner said, "I'm 54 years old and I've never been arrested."

"I didn't know what I did was wrong, but if it was I have to live up to my obligation," he added.

Don't worry about prices

Concerned about high prices for food, housing, clothing, and transportation?

All of those items are more expensive, but perhaps that's not where your money has been going.

The Conference Board, a business-sponsored research group, determined that the cost of maintaining a "reasonable comfortable standard of living for an urban family of four went up 46 per cent in the last five years, but personal income taxes rose 63 per cent."

The now famous (or infamous) "bracket creep" is the culprit behind that spectacular (or dismal) increase in taxes paid.

The Board, using figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, found that the cost of the "reasonably comfortable" standard of living went from $20,771 in 1974 to $30,317 in 1979. That's a 46 per cent increase. Personal income taxes on the higher earnings were $6,357, up 63 per cent from $3,899. Food costs went up 42.9 per cent, housing costs went up 44.2 per cent, clothing costs went up 13.5 per cent, and transportation costs went up 58.5 per cent.

And by the time you read this, your Social Security tax has gone up again. In 1980 you paid 6.13 per cent on earnings up to $25,900 and in 1981 you will pay 6.65 per cent on earnings up to $29,700.

MOVIN' ON UP—The Mississippi Gulf Coast Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. in conjunction with AFRI Productions, New York will present the musical-dramatic production, "Movin' on up" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts, Biloxi. Advance tickets are available at Taylor-Harris Drug Store, Gulfport; Tyrone Barber Shop in Biloxi; Styles of Beauty Salon in Ocean Springs and Medi-Mart Pharmacy in Moss Point. Tickets, $7.50 for adults and $5 for students, will be available also at the door.

Krewe of Hancock accepting entries

Nereids Parade scheduled in Waveland February 22

The 15th annual Krewe of Nereids parade is scheduled to roll through the streets of Waveland Sunday, Feb. 22 beginning at 2 p.m.

The Nereids aggregation is traditionally followed by the Krewe of Hancock truck parade composed of business, school, family and neighborhood groups.

The Nereids organization is currently accepting applications from groups desiring to enter the Krewe of Hancock parade.

Regulations governing parade trucks require body of the truck be decorated to carry out a specific theme with riders costumed to fit the theme.

A truck number sign must indicate the theme and be visibly displayed, the parade captain stated.

Entries are being accepted from truck and other floats, marching groups, individual horsemen, horse units or other units at POB 5, Waveland, 39576.

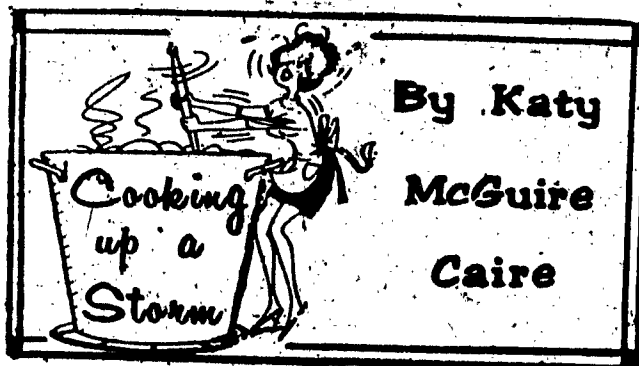

CHOICE OF REGISTRATION

U.S. Savings Bonds may only be issued in the name of one person, in the names of two persons, as co-owners, or in the name of one person, as owner, with a second person as beneficiary (payable on death).

The captain said entries must be received prior to February 10. No entry fees are required, she added.

Krewe officials reserve the right to disqualify any truck that does not meet the standards of conduct and decoration set forth by the krewe, the captain continued. Although every precaution will be taken to insure safety, the organization is not responsible for any accidents, to people on floats before, during and after the parade, the captain warned.

Rice, that long-time staple which often saves the dinner in Southern cookery, is the basis of so many fine dishes that there's no point in starting to enumerate them.

Rice, cooked with your own homemade stock or bouillon granules or cubes, or leftover gravy-sauce, or what have you, with onions and a little celery or so, is a delicious way to stretch many dishes.

This way, it tastes rather "meaty" and needs not very much meat or additional sauce to make it a dish fit, if not for a king, for the good ole Americans in your household.

And, to my "chinchy"—that means sorta cheap—gourmet school of cooking, chicken livers are one of the best extras to add to that rice-and-such to turn out a gourmet meal...and, incidentally, also good if you buy them frozen in cartons.

The cheapest way, of course, if you consume a lot of chicken, is to make it a practice to freeze the livers as you cook the rest of the bird, and in not too much time at all, you'll have enough to give you a delightful dinner that's almost free! (And that's not a word much applicable to these sky-high inflation times, is it?)

So, here's that combination of rice and chicken livers, that good stretchable

CHICKEN LIVER PILAF

Approximately 1 lb. chicken

livers, give or take what's on hand

4 tablespoons butter

2 medium onions, chopped, or green onions

5 or 6 tablespoons sherry (I prefer dry sherry)

1 to 1½ cups raw rice (uncooked, that means)

3 cups broth, bouillon, as above

3 tablespoons olive oil

Salt, pepper, hot pepper sauce to your taste

Heat the oil in a heavy saucepan (for me, my cast iron pot) and add the chopped onion, cooking till transparent and starting to brown, then add the raw rice. Stir over rather medium heat till the rice grains start to brown here and there in the pot...and then add the three cups of bouillon which you've brought to a boil while the rice is getting to the proper point of doneness.

Stir it all around well, cover the pot and turn the fire very very low, and let it cook for twenty minutes or so, then fluff with a fork so the grains stay separate.

Meanwhile, cut the chicken

livers into halves or quarters, the smaller you cut them, the farther the dish will stretch.

Cook over high heat, just a few minutes as liver of any kind is much more flavorful and tender if it's not overcooked, then add the sherry and salt and pepper to taste.

Serve over the rice, or if you're feeling a bit "fancy", turn out the rice in a ring on the serving dish and mound

the chicken livers in the center.

And, I like to add strips of pimento or green pepper or green onions to give a bit of color to the dish.

The Lakeshore mother said "many" other county residents are circulating petitions, but wish to remain anonymous due to possible repercussions.

"We are three who don't care about publicly backing this petition," Lusich stated.

"We've got a group in the north end and south end of the county circulating the petition. And every day people are coming to me asking to sign the petition," she reported.

The Lakeshore parent continued, "We plan on taking the petition to Governor William Winter ourselves. Bourgeois, Nicaise and I will go to Jackson."

Lusich said she alone has collected over 200 signatures, but she would not divulge the total number of signatures gathered thus far.

"We have said after the first 200 signatures we wouldn't divulge the total collected. Also, we have so many people working to gather signatures a total figure just isn't available," she stated.

In Hancock County such a petition must have at least 2,000 signatures from among some 10,000 registered voters in the county school district.

Registrar of Voters Henry Otis said Friday afternoon, "Only those who live in the county school district are eligible to sign the petition. Signatures of persons in the city district will not be recognized."

Lusich said she and several others are soliciting signatures in the "south end" of the county and reported, "This is the easiest area to get these names."

"We're very serious about this. This school thing has gotten out of hand and we want to do something about it. We're hoping the Grand Jury will take some action," the school patron stated.

"People in Lakeshore are behind us 100 percent," Lusich noted.

"Our petition was taken from state law and the October Grand Jury report," Lusich said.

The Lakeshore school patron said an attorney drafted the petition, but would not divulge the legal counsel's name.

The petition states,

"The superintendent entered into an oral cost-plus contract for repairs, did not get competitive bids, did nothing to verify costs billed to the board by contractors, recommended payment of labor bills when no labor was actually performed, and recommended payment to a board member for labor allegedly performed by said board member when he should have known that said payment was a violation of the law."

The petition continues, "He would not accept advice from the board's attorney concerning preparation of repair contracts. He would not accept advice from the board's architect concerning selection of the contractor or consult the board's attorney concerning preparation of repair contracts. He orally contracted, without same reflecting in the school board minutes, with firms not licensed to do business in Mississippi and did not secure required bonds to insure satisfactory completion of the work. He contracted with firms which charged exorbitant fees when alternative reasonable offers were presented."

"We respectfully demand removal of said Superintendent because of his incompetency in office, wasteful spending of taxpayers' money, and blatant disregard and violation of the laws of Mississippi and the convenience of the voters of said county," the petition states.

A request added is for a special election, "to permit the qualified electors of said county to vote on the question of whether or not the said officer shall be removed."

Cable channel expands news, documentary shows

SuperStation WTBS on Hancock Community Cable's Channel 7 has announced plans to expand its programming in the categories of news and documentaries.

Robert Wussler, executive vice-president of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc., stated recently, "Our objective is to continuously upgrade our programming. Recent research findings regarding consumer acceptance of our cable news network service has given us the opportunity to further diversify our program mix. Therefore, WTBS has initiated changes in the evening news format and the production of several new programs."

TBS Evening News will be co-anchored by Marcia Ladendorff and Don Miller. Dallas Raines, meteorologist for the news network, also continues as meteorologist for the TBS Evening News.

The program will be produced by Cable News Network which is part of the Turner Broadcasting System, Inc., Wussler noted.

David Allan Jensen moves from news anchor for the evening news to host of the new production, Turner Broadcasting System Presents, a series of one-hour broadcasts dealing with life in America and addressing some of the problems of the 1980's," Wussler said.

Jensen formerly hosted a weekday show on the British Broadcasting Company and was featured in a weekly, current affairs magazine show which received critical acclaim throughout Britain. Before coming to the United States, David was named one of Europe's top radio and television personalities," Wussler reported.

"Another innovative program added to the WTBS lineup will be Nice People, a weekly half hour broadcast hosted by popular television and radio personality, Bob Neal," Wussler said.

Nice People will feature the efforts and personalities of some of the 'best citizens' of the United States and will premiere early this spring," he stated.

Bob Neal recently hosted and produced Football Saturday on TBS.

Jeffrey Hewitt, former producer for the TBS Evening News, will produce Nice People.

Durbin, Hill vows solemnized

First Baptist Church in Bay St. Louis formed the setting for the January 17 exchange of vows between Belinda Joy Hill and Kenneth Alton Durbin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Braxton Lamar Hill of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Alton Durbin, also of Bay St. Louis.

Rev. Nathan L. Barber officiated at the 6 p.m. double ring candlelight ceremony. Nuptial music was provided by Gail Carr, organist and Becky Rayborn, Don Maufrey and Conrad Maufrey, vocalists.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over taffeta with fitted bodice featuring a portrait neckline overlaid with appliques of jeweled venise lace. Matching venise lace flowers embellished with seed pearls adorned the bodice and waist. Full bishop sleeves or organza embroidered with lace ended with ruffled lace cuffs and her pleated overskirt and chapel length train were delicately edged with schiffli embroidery.

Her veil of imported silk illusion was edged in venise lace and was held in place by a matching jeweled lace caplet. She carried a cascade of pink roses, maroon forget-me-nots and baby's breath.

Ruth Sanders of Bay St. Louis, aunt of the groom, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Bonnie Hill, Lorrie Hill, and Cindy Jackson of Bay St. Louis, sisters of the bride; Jan Durbin of Bay St. Louis, sister of the groom; Anne Sellier and Pam Magee of Bay St. Louis; and Connie Necaise of Pass Christian.

Pass horticulturist outlines tips for growing healthy house plants

"House plants are like children," said Mr. John Davis, area extension horticulturist, "you have to give them the care that they require."

Speaking before a recent meeting of the Pass Christian Garden Club, Mr. Davis said house plants will grow and thrive if they are provided with the conditions essential for growth.

When taking a commercially grown plant home from a greenhouse, Mr. Davis believes extra care must be given or it will go through a shock called acclimation. To help a plant adjust to its new environment, it should be misted to keep the humidity down, and placed where it will get the brightest light possible, as long as it's not getting direct sun light, Mr. Davis said.

Also, he continued, time should be taken to touch not only the surface of the potting soil, but to feel the soil about an inch below its surface to see if the plant needs water.

Mr. Davis discussed the types of light, water, humidity, fertilization, potting soil, and plant disease and insect controls necessary for healthy house plants.

"Generally there are two classes of house plants; those that flower and those that don't," he said. And as a general rule, flowering plants require more light than the non-flowering ones, he added.

During the winter-time, Mr. Davis recommended the use of artificial light sources to extend the daylight hours needed for plants to grow and thrive. By using regular light bulbs at a proper distance, cool and warm white fluorescent light, or the special plant growth bulbs, house plants will continue to grow even under reduced light conditions, he said.

"The quality of water for house plants is essential. If you don't want to buy distilled water, or don't have a shallow well, city water can be utilized temporarily if a tablespoon of vinegar is added to each gallon of water used," Mr. Davis suggested. The vinegar counteracts the sodium in the city water, he added.

Garden club members were told house plants need additional moisture because of the dry air in most homes. Mr. Davis recommends increasing the amount of humidity a plant needs by grouping them together; misting once or twice a day with an atomizer, or setting the plant in its container on pebbles in a tray and water the pebbles. The water will evaporate on the pebbles surface and increase the moisture output.

"I recommend any commercial plant food you can buy," Mr. Davis said. He usually takes half the amount suggested on the plant food container to a gallon of water and uses it very other watering. Be sure when watering with fertilizer water, he warned, to get some dripping out the bottom of the plant container so that the fertilizer doesn't build up within the soil.

Mr. Davis said he buys commercial potting soil because most of them have been sterilized so that the plants don't start growing with diseases. He usually takes one-third to one-half commercial potting soil and adds a quarter of peat moss and a quarter of vermiculite to it to give his plants the soil care they need.

One of the more common disease problems among house plants, Mr. Davis said, is crown rot. This is a rot at the soil line that girdles the stem and interrupts the flow of water to the plant. "If crown rot is in its early stage, instead of using a chemical on it, just pinch off the affected leaves," he said.

Mrs. Drury Dragon and Mrs. N. Lee Stanbro were hostesses at the meeting.

The Spinal Column

BY
WILLIAM L. POWELL, D.C.

Questions From Our Patients

PATIENT: When should a patient see a chiropractor?

DR. POWELL: Everyone should have a spinal examination at least twice a year. Any spinal distortion or nerve irritation could then be quickly eliminated. Preventive health care enables one to live a more healthy and productive life.

PATIENT: Why is the spinal column so important?

DR. POWELL: Your brain controls all the functions in your body. It sends vital nerve impulses to all areas of the body through your spinal cord. It receives important messages from the body as well. When a spinal bone becomes misaligned, it may irritate the sensitive spinal nerves, thus interfering with these important spinal messages.

PATIENT: If there is nerve irritation in the spinal column what type problems may exist?

DR. POWELL: This depends on the organ or area of the body controlled by the irritated nerve. For example, if an irritation would occur to the spinal nerves in the neck, a number of acutely painful conditions could result—such as migraine headaches.

PATIENT: What could a chiropractor do for neck pain, common headaches or even migraines?

DR. POWELL: Following a complete physical examination and X-ray study, he would locate the areas of nerve involvement and remove the irritation by correcting the vertebral misalignment.

PATIENT: Is the adjustment painful?

DR. POWELL: Using proper chiropractic technique, there should be NO pain when making the correction.
